A college p-rade without stopping at Fem. Sem.

GOOD SUGGESTION.

Homely Frosh: "My face pains me, Bosey; what shall I do?"

Bosey: "I'm sure, I don't know. You might try a beauty specialist."

HISTORY OF FINANCE.

Clarence and Henrietta sat on the porch.

Clarence said: "I love you Henrietta."

Warbled Henrietta: "I love you too, Clarence."

Whereupon Clarence became a holding company, and drew up his articles of incorporation so closely, that Henrietta went into the hands of the receiver.

"Well, now, I'll not say that. But I've heard it isn't necessary."

AN INCIDENT OF THE WAR.

It was the thirty-first of October, 1918, at Versailles, France, when the American Section of the Supreme War Council was in session. General Pershing was speaking. He was explaining how the final advance on the Meuse-Argonne front was to start on the next day. "The artillery force has been increased and has done magnificent work in preparing for the attack," he said, "and during the last few weeks, the enemy ranks have broken repeatedly before our infantry, but for some reason I am uneasy. If our re-inforcements should fail us, we should be lost."

"I have made all arrangements for the re-inforcements," said one of his aides, "and you need not worry about them." "But," said another member of the General Staff, "why are you uneasy about the outcome of this offensive? That is not like you, General Pershing. Other times, you always feel so sure that our boys will win."

"That is true," replied General Pershing, "but I seem to have lost ---." Just then an attendant entered and announced a messenger who had brought an important paper from Paris. "Send him in at once," said the general. The messenger entered, handed the paper to the general and explained that it had just arrived from America. The Officer of Military Intelligence, he said, had forwarded it immediately to Versailles. General Pershing accepted the paper and dismissed the messenger.

"Gentlemen of the Supreme War Council," he said, "I wish to assure you now that I have no more doubts about the success of our offensive tomorrow. This is the paper for which I have been waiting to give me renewed hope and courage. Gentlemen, the War Council is adjourned."

After most of the members had left, General Pershing's confidant stepped up to him and said, "General, may I ask you what was in that paper which gave you such renewed hope and trust in our boys?"

"Certainly," said General Pershing, "this is my copy of the LEHIGH BURR, for which I have been waiting several days."

PERHAPS.

Speaking of the responsibility that rests on the slender ribbons over the shoulders of the modern govened debutante, have you ever stopped to consider the responsibility that rests on the young lady who does "The Dance of the Seven Veils,"--the responsibility of always being accurate in the count?

SAMF OLD LINE.

Lafayette: "We are going to run away with Lehigh in football this season."

Lehigh: "Yes, yes, go on."

Lafayette: "You bet your life. What odds are you going to give us this time?"

HEARD AT THE COMMONS.

"Well," said the waiter to the student, who had just had his coffee cup refilled for the seventh time, "you must be very fond of coffee."

"Yes, indeed," answered the student. "or I wouldn't be drinking so much water to get a little."

ONE EXPLANATION.

"Rastus, what's an alibi?"

"Dat's provin' dat you was at prayer meetin', whar you wasn't, in order to show dat you wasn't at the crap game, whar you was."

OH, COME ALL YE FAITHFUL.

An evangelist who was conducting a revival, announced one evening that at the next service he would speak on "Liars." He advised his audience to read in advance the seventeenth chapter of Mark.

The next evening he arose and said, "I am going to preach on 'Liars' tonight and I would like to know how many of you have read the chapter I suggested." A hundred hands were upraised.

"Now", he said, "you are the very persons I want to talk to, for there is no seventeenth chapter of Mark."

AT THE PUNCHBOWL.

He: "Let's dance."

She: "Oh no. Let's walk it off."

COME ON, LAFAYETTE.

Lafayette: "Who is starring on the Lehigh team this season?"

Lehigh: "Everybody, thanks."

BURRO went to press shortly after the defeat suffered at the hands of Pittsburg. That we encountered a wonderful machine in that remarkable game is not to be disputed; Warner brought one of the smoothest working football teams to Taylor Field that has ever been seen there. The game was clean and no alibis will be offered by Lehigh men. Yet we feel that our exhibition was by no means a disgrace and that Pittsburg encountered as strong a foe as any she had met up to that time with the possible exception of Syracuse. The Lehigh team showed to the sporting world that was represented in the press box that day, that it was not a paper team, and that she had deserved the compliments she had received from the mouths of her friends.

What Lehigh will do during the remainder of the season is still to be seen. But she has shown beyond all shadow of a doubt that her team has advanced from the position of a small college team, and that in the future she is to be classed among those leaders of the football world to whom the critics assign the honors. Two big games remain on the schedule, Penn State and Lafayette, and should the team be successful in each of those contests, she should certainly be classed among the leaders. The Pitt game was so even for fifty minutes of play that it would have been hard to give more credit to the westerners than to our own men, and it was only by a wonderful spurt that her backs could get away in the waning minutes of the game.

The big part of the season still remains, even at the time that BURRO appears to the student body, for no matter what we do before the 22nd of November, there is only one way that the sun will set peaceably that afternoon, with Lehigh in the lead.

SPEAKING of the football team, we are again up to a point where we were four years ago. At that time, Lehigh's football team had defeated Lafayette three years in succession. Our friends down the river surprised us in 1915, when they came up on Taylor Field and defeated us by a score of 35-6, at a time, when we felt we had one of the strongest teams in our history.

But Lehigh recovered quickly. In the years 1916, 1917 and 1918 they have beaten Lafayette quite decisively, and in those three years, a Lafayette man has never crossed our goal line. There is no need for overconfidence, that is what our trouble may have been in 1915. But we are up to the point again of making it four straight. Let's pull strong for the team to put it across, so that we can all give Lafayette the little laugh on November 22.

AND still on the subject of football, we feel that it is necessary for us to say a few words about the spirit of Lehigh men who saw that game with Pittsburg.

Many times have we heard of the spirit that was shown by the old Lehigh men, how they took defeats with their victories in that same spirit which refused to be downed in the end. We realized that things had slackened during the war, that most of the spirit had disappeared. But we recall from a previous editorial, that we said that spirit was only lying dormant and that it was not dead; that it was only a question of time until it would come back.

And it did.

Spirit in a man, in an institution, in a nation is probably better exhibited in defeat than it is in victory, and that it was shown after Davies scored in the Pitt game is beyond the question of a doubt. As one man, the crowd in the cheering sections of the Lehigh stands rose and fought behind that team until the whistle blew, and even then it refused to be silenced, for in a pouring rain, the college body moved to the field house for a long session of cheers for the team.

It was a spirit that was commented upon by the visitors who were with us, it received mention in most of the leading papers the following day, and on that day Lehigh proved she was game. That is the spirit that is going to beat Lafayette and make it four straight.

THE committee in charge of the fund for the Alumni Memorial campaign has placed a proposition before the student body which has been referred to in college meetings at two different times. Although this building is being given primarily by the alumni as a memorial for those Lehigh men who offered their services to their country and especially for those who died during the war, it has been thought by some, that the undergraduate body who at some time will be alumni would like to share in this work.

No campaign will be conducted, but any man who feels that he would like to contribute to this cause, can arrange to do so by seeing Walter R. Okeson in his office in Drown Hall. Payments can be arranged so that the first payment will be made after a man's graduation from college, so that he may reckon upon his income at that time. It is a worthy cause and BURRO feels that no man will make a mistake if he decides to take an interest in the project.

THE inter fraternity council which was formed during the closing months last year has been organized completely, the standing committees have been appointed and the decks are cleared for action. Already, the committee in charge has arranged an attractive bowling schedule for the different fraternities for the coming winter evenings and a basketball schedule is in the process of formulation. This should prove the first step towards the bringing together of the fraternities at Lehigh in their relations one toward the other. In addition to this, the social committee plans to furnish some arrangements by which interfraternity dancing, which has proved an asset to the fraternities at other colleges, may become a reality and things should move well along these lines.

BURRO fondly hopes that in the first year of its existence this council may accomplish a great deal. But we feel that the main purpose of the council should not be forgotten. When it was formed, a compromise was reached in regard to the imposition of rushing agreements on the different houses, due to the fact that last spring many of the fraternities were in a weakened condition as a result of the loss of men during the war. It was agreed that nothing should be said regarding this matter until after the first of April, 1920. No action, in other words, could be started in the council until that time.

But there is nothing to prevent any of us from thinking of what systems might be feasible, when the time comes for a rushing system to be proposed and accepted. There will be many different ideas, there will be many complaints over some of the suggestions that will be offered, but it is up to the men to select, not perhaps an entire system as it is offered by one man, but one which will combine the wholesome ideas of all the suggestions. Any plan that will be accepted may not be entirely approved by all, but the fraternities must remember the great gain that will be eventually effected for them and must be willing to give up some of their beliefs and rights for the benefit of all. Then and then only will fraternity life be able to thrive as it has in other colleges. Lehigh is unquestionably behind the times on this question of inter-fraternity agreements and it is up to her to see the signs of the times and fall in line with her sister colleges and universities.

SERGEANT SPEEDUM'S CITATION.

On a bright day last September, word was received that the infantry was to go over the top without the aid of a barrage. I mentioned the fact to a sergeant who was presiding over a brother gun. He, being a big-hearted lad, thought it suicide for the boys to go to the attack without the soothing effect of a hell-raising artillery fire to precede them. It did no good to try and calm Sergeant Speedum by telling him that the guns had not yet been brought up, save three, besides the fact that the nearest ammunition was at a dump a hundred yards distant.

Nothing daunted, Sergeant Speedum's face took on a determined look. He threw his blouse aside and sped to the dump, secured ammunition, and soon had the three guns blazing away merrily. I, thinking the man was loco sat down to watch him. By this time, the infantry had started from the trenches, but to their surprise, the barrage was laid down in front of them. The sergeant's speed was so great that in passing back and forth from the ammunition pile, the friction of the air against the shell set off the percussion cap, but rising to the emergency, he would unscrew the mechanism and extinguish the spark before the explosive was ignited. In this manner he carried the ammunition the hundred yards (one shell per trip), loaded and fired the guns besides thoroughly cleaning and oiling the guns after each dozen shots.

It seems incredible, but there is authentic proof that the firing was so rapid that there was the appearance of a pipe line running from the mouth of each gun, rimmed with fire. This all seemed supernatural to me. Sergeant Speedum capped the climax and increased my wonder when after firing each shot, he would run around the gun and look down its mouth to see what detained the shot.

The infantry obtained their objective without a casualty. Seeing the boys well located, the perspiring sergeant put on his blouse, sat upon the rock, rolled a cigarette, lighted it, then looked up into my staring and awestruck face and said: "Kid, don't tell this one on me. I could have done a decent job if the ammunition dump you spoke of hadn't blown up and I had to make my own out of that scrap heap over there on the hill," which I then noticed to be two hundred yards distant.

BRIGHTNESS

"An ancient Chinese method of committing suicide was by eating gold loaf."

Are we supposed to believe that the partaker of such treatment died from a consciousness of inward guilt?

LISTEN, LISTEN.

Mary had a little flag,
The color it was red
And everywhere that Mary went
The men on strike she led.

Mary had ten pounds of sweet
They call it sugar here.
And everywhere that Mary went
They called her "profiteer."

At a church conference, a speaker began a tirade against universities and education, expressing thankfulness that he had never been corrupted by contact with a college.

After proceeding for a few minutes, the bishop, who was in the chair, interrupted with this question:

"Do I understand that the speaker is thankful for his ignorance?"

"Well, yes," answered the speaker, "if you wish to put it that way."

"Well, all I have to say," said the bishop in an amused way, "is that he has a great deal to be thankful for."

SOMETIMES, SQUIRRELS ARE LUCKY!

The way we want to talk to a Professor about our marks:

"Now see here, Prof., you simply must give me better marks in this subject. I have been doing good work and I deserve to be treated better. Why, dammit man, I spend an hour every night just studying this one subject. So I want you to understand this hereafter. I must have higher marks. You don't even mark fairly. Fellows who do much less work than I do get much higher marks. I'm sorry I have to talk to you this way, but I want you to know how I feel about it."

The way we do talk to them:

"Why--ah-Professor, will you please tell me what my mark is in this subject? Oh, an E, oh thank you very much, professor."

AFTER THE WAR EFFECTS

The Commons are serving "aeroplane chicken" for Sunday dinner nowadays. (Yes, they're all wings and machinery and no meat.)

An example, for the benefit of our Math. sharks, of "taking the greater from the less," could be ably illustrated by knocking the conceit out of some of our freshmen.

SAY. DID YOU ever go to the movies,
AND SIT IN the dark,
AND WHILE you were watching the picture,
AS THE INDIANS were scalping the hero,
AND you were so excited
THAT YOU JUST felt like yelling
"GO TO IT."
AND THEN
DID YOU EVER feel a creepy sensation
WHICH MADE YOU feel so uncomfortable;
DID YOU EVER begin to itch and itch,
AND finally did you look around?
SAY. DID YOU EVER find some one
TICKLING you with a feather?

REMINISCENCE.

"Silence," says an alumnus, "is the college yell of the school of experience."

PRIDE.

Excited Frosh (to surrounding throng of admirers): "Yes sir, the 'Varsity fullback spoke to me, going down to the train."

Skeptic: "What did he say?"

Frosh: "Get the hell out of the way, will you?"

"I'm at your service," chuckled the burglar, as he reached for the silverware.

Belated Angler (returning home after a heavy day with rod and flask and seeing a scarecrow in a field): "You're a liar, sir. There never was a fish that size."

BAL MASQUE.

I'm sure that no gypsy
Was ever so charming.
(In fact, I've been told
They are downright alarming:
You know most crude persons,
Devoid of civilities,
With knives in their garments,
And with Pullman facilities).
But, now I've discovered
These tales are all false,
What say, pretty Magyar,
Cross your hand for a waltz.

Mrs. Nuwed "Mary, I think we'll have boiled mutton with caper sauce for dinner. Are there any capers in the house?"

Mary: "No, ma'am."

Mrs. Nuwed: "Then go out into the garden and cut some."

OFTEN THE CASE

JEWELS.

From freshman entrance examination papers.

Jugular--A person on the stage, who throws up and catches various articles, like billiard balls, vases, eggs, ten-pins, and chairs.

Slough--An animal without a shell, but having rough hard skin on its back. It resembles a snail very closely.

Cogent--Cogent means partner. One gentleman who works another gentleman.

Split infinitive--A secret split by one of the gang to a policeman or other menace.

Board of Trustees--A body of men attached to colleges, orphanages, poor-houses, lunatic asylums and other hospitals.

Civil Justice--When an argument arises between two parties, one accuses the other. If the accused can get enough witnesses to prove he didn't do what he did, he is treated with a little civility and dismissed.

Library--A place where books are kept. A convenient place to lounge in. The books are kept where no one can get at them, although no one wants to get at most of them.

OH, DOCTOR!

"I hear you have a new doctor. What was the matter with the old one?"

"He didn't believe alcohol had any medical value."

NO DOUBT.

"My barber told me a wonderful story this morning."

"Illustrated with cuts, I presume."

OH, THE DUTCH.

Teacherette: "Why didn't you send up a man to mend our electric bell?"

Electrician: "He did go, madame, but as he rang twice and got no answer, he concluded that there was no one at home."

LAFAYETTE.

Where the Lehigh meets the Delaware,
Upon a hilltop bold.
Stands a college known as Lafayette,
Of whom great deeds are told.

She is sure to be a winner,
So many people say,
But defeat we know will be her lot,
Upon this Saturday.

For three straight years they've tasted,
The sting of hard defeat:
So here they all are crying;
Revenge, revenge is sweet.

Come, all ye sons of old Lehigh
Who honor Brown and White:
Unite your powers and strength that day,
And we shall win the fight.

The fight that gives us honor,
The fight that raises our name,
And place it here forever,
Upon the rolls of fame.

A GOOD SUGGESTION

Frosh: "I feel like breaking into song."

Soph: "Why don't you get the key and then you won't have to break in."

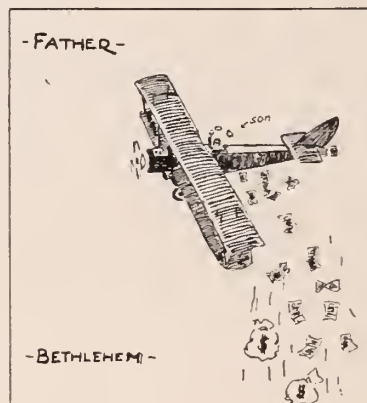

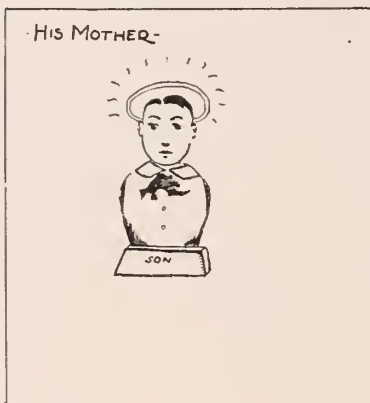

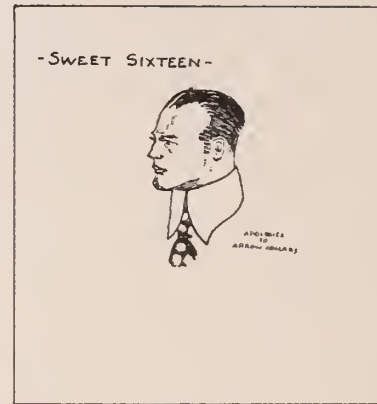

THE HONOR SYSTEM.

It was the last lecture of the term, and the professor was urging his students to put in all their time in preparation for the final examination.

"The examination questions are now in the hands of the printer," he said. "Now are there any more questions you want answered at this time?"

Voice from the back row (after a minute's silence): "Who is the printer?"

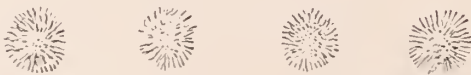

A COLLEGE MAN AS HE APPEARS TO—

THAT'S ENOUGH.

"Were you very much embarrassed when you proposed to her?"

"Only about $50,000."

OH, GRAND.

Stude (at the opera house during a singing act, to two girls in front of him, who talked continuously): "Pardon me, girls, but would you mind speaking a little louder? Sometimes the music prevents my hearing exactly what you say."

TRUE ENOUGH.

First Frosh to Second: "What is the best fraternity at Lafayette?"

Second Frosh: "I have called up six of them this afternoon and they all admit that they are. But I will call up the rest tomorrow and let you know."

IN ITS FAVOR.

English Prof: "What is the unit of English verse?"

Stude: "The meter."

INDEED?

"What is the acid test of the happiness of a newly married couple?"

"H. C. L."

THE OLD STORY.

Once I knew a lassie
Whose name was Isabelle;
She was very glib and brassy
And some folks thought her swell.
Hats she wore of latest fashion--
Gay flowers bedecked her crown;
Gum she loved with deepest passion--
This belle of Easton town.
Chance she had indeed to marry
One farmer, William Snead;
"No," replied this little wonder,
"I really fancy speed."
Wrinkled now and very fragile,
With gray curls drooping down,
She is now not quite so agile--
This maid of Easton town.

NAMES

Inventor: "I have a fan here that will make a thousand revolutions a minute. What should I name it?"

Friend: "Better call it Mexico."

THE LITTLE TRAGEDIES OF COLLEGE LIFE.

Discovering after trudging to Taylor Field, that one has left his little grey ticket proving ownership of stock in Lehigh athletics, safely in the pocketbook in that other coat.

PRECISE DIRECTIONS

Medical Officer: "Did you get that man to gargle?"

Nurse: "Yes, sir."

M. O.: "How did you do it?"

Nurse: "Oh, I just told him to take a little in his mouth, put his head back, and make a noise like an officer."

OH, LEND AN EAR.

With apologies to Edmund Burke:

Applaud us when we carry twenty hours, console us when we fail, and when we pass nine hours, let us pass on, yes, yes, for Gawd's sake, let us pass on.

YES, YES.

*The boy stood on the burning deck,
His feet were full of blisters,
He tore his pants on a rusty nail,
And now he wears his ——uncle's.*

SENATORIAL ARGUMENT

He: "I don't care how you look at it, my dear, it's only another scrap of paper."

His wife: "But surely, it isn't as easy to tear up this time. It is a bound book with hundreds of pages."

OH DEATH! WHERE IS THY STING?

A visiting trustee, during an address upon physiology made to the pupils of a certain public school, said:

"My dear children, I want to talk to you a few minutes concerning one of the most wonderful, one of the most important organisms in the whole world. What is it, that throbs away beats away, never stopping, never ceasing, whether you are awake or asleep, night and day, year in and year out, all your life long?"

He paused for oratorical effect and a small voice piped up, "I know, sir, the gas meter."

SO DO OTHERS

Professor: "Do you believe in the Christian concept that we do not own our wealth, but owe it?"

Stude: "Yes, I practice it."

METHOD IN HIS MADNESS

"I am surprised that you should encourage so young a boy to smoke, by giving him cigarettes."

"Sh—, not so loud. That's my office boy."

HOUSEOWNER: "I was lighting the gas stove, officer, and was blown out the window, but just in time."

THEY GET THIS WAY

Burr Competitor: "Will you accept this poem at regular rates?"

Editor: "Yes, I suppose so. Go and inquire what the rates are of the advertising manager. And how many times do you wish it inserted, please?"

"If two Fords were racing in Ireland, what time would it be?"

"Tin after tin."

VALUE OF DEGREES.

Sister: "Do you know, Bobbie that your father has a Ph. B.?"

Little Brother: "No is it anything he can die from?"

THE AUTUMN.

*The melancholy days are here,
The saddest of the year.
Not cold enough for whiskey straight,
But yet too cold for beer.*

A FACT

Old Bill Keller,
Went to his cellar
To get a drop for his thirst.
And when he got there,
The cellar was bare,
For Congress had been there first.

TO THE POINT.

Visitor (waiting for a bid to lunch): "Two o'clock. I fear that I am keeping you from your lunch."

Hostess: "No, not at all, but I am afraid that we are keeping you from yours."

THE FRESHMAN

HERE IS A TYPE OF BOLSHEVIST.

HE HAS NO PRINCIPLES. HE BELIEVES THAT IN NUMBERS THERE IS STRENGTH

HE DOES NOT THINK HE HAS TO COME OUT AND CHEER.

HE HAS NO COLLEGE SPIRIT.

HE IS NOT THE TRUE REPRESENTATIVE OF HIS CLASS.

HE THAT HATH EARS, LET HIM HEAR.

HE SHOULD BE VERY CAREFUL.

HE MAY GROUND HIMSELF IN THE FOG.

POLITENESS PERSONIFIED.

At a recent wedding, when the clergyman asked the bride, "Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" she, with a modesty which lent her beauty additional grace, replied, "If you please."

IGNORANCE

Old Lady: "Yes, my petunias have done very badly this year, and I feel it has been mostly on account of the daylight saving. I have felt myself, that the mornings are colder."

CIVILIZATION

First gob: "Look, Joe, a seaplane."

Second gob (busy scrubbing deck): "S'elp me, Bob. Ain't this the twentieth century? If you'd pointed it out to Shakespeare, he might 'a looked"

All we now hear from the Lafayette camp is Weldon. It is the opinion of Yc Critic that after November 22nd, Lafayette will be well-done.

WELL, WELL.

First Frosh: "Is it proper to wear either a Prince Albert or a Tuxedo to a social function?"

Second Frosh: "Say, leave your pipe at home."

SAD, BUT TRUE.

No matter how healthy a bow-legged person may be, they are always in bad shape.

OFTEN HAPPENS

"Hello Jim, get into Lehigh?"
"Nope, I'm going to Lafayette."

ALONG RUN

NOT EXACTLY.

First Stude: "I see Pete was at the horse show."

Second Stude: "As an exhibit?"

THESE COLLEGE BOYS.

First Father: "My boy's letters always send me to the dictionary."

Second Father: "That's nothing. My boy's always send me to the bank."

TO 1923

Flotsam of the campus,
Like the scum upon the sea;
We see the little freshmen,
The class of Twenty-Three.

DON'T LOOK.

"What advertisement does a young lady getting into a trolley car remind you of?"
"Seymore stockings."

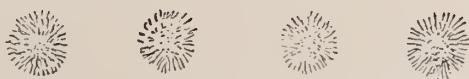

MORE REFLECTIONS.

BURRO believes that between strikes, race riots and murders, American coroners are kept busy in spite of prohibition.

And again, BURRO suggests that sweetening one's coffee is the first stirring event of the day.

DIPLOMACY

Cautious Professor: (anticipating shortage of labor): "Could you possibly - er - domesticate- I mean to say, wash a shirt, press trousers and things, and bake a bit of bread, what?"

MODERN PROBLEMS.

Steelworker's wife: "You must excuse Mr. Jenkins tonight. He's very worried just now trying to think how he can go on a strike against his unemployment allowance from the union and get it raised."

YES, YES, OF COURSE.

Ordered to carry a message of importance across a strip of territory under heavy fire of the German guns, the courier stood beside his motorcycle and gazed anxiously down the road. Oblivious of his companions around him, he turned his eyes upwards and prayed: "Oh, Lord, Thou knowest I don't give a damn for myself, but for England's sake, help me to get across."

Frosh: "Can't you possibly remove that condition?"

The Secretary: "No."

Frosh: "Why not?"

The Secretary: "That is the Lehigh war tax."

CHANGES.

19th Century: "Wine, Women and Song."

20th Century: "Near Beer, Flappers and Jazz."

NOT A BAD COMEBACK

An American on seeing a Chinaman scattering rice on the grave of his brother said: "Do you think that he will come to life and eat the rice?"

"Sure," replied the Chinaman, "Maybe just as much as the Melican man smells the flowers."

SONG OF THE SIMPLE FROSH.

I wish I were a little fish,
All frozen in the ice,
And when the girlies skated o'er,
Oh, wouldn't that be nice?

Head nurse (to officer with train to catch, attempting to leave the hospital ten minutes before the permitted time): "Mr. Simpson, where are you going?"

Mr. Simpson: "Hush, sh-, sh-, I'm deserting."

TO BE AVOIDED

Old Tar: "Bah, you make me sick with them U-boat stories you tell people."

Ex-gob: "Well, they were all true."

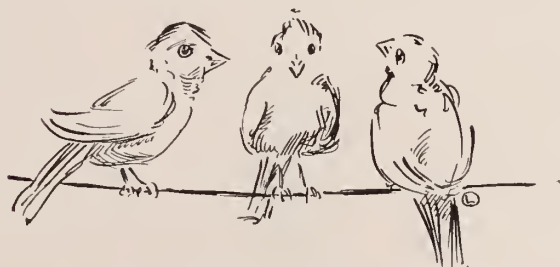

Old Tar: "True. Certainly they were true. That's wot I am kickin' at. With the material you had, you ought to have told 'em tales a hundred yards long."

BRASS

New Butcher Boy (to noble lord, strolling in his park): "Are you Lord Wimbleling?"

Lord: "Yes, boy."

Boy: "Well, here's your meat."

"Not the Oldest—Just the Best"

The "Constitution" of To-day—Electrically Propelled

THE U. S. S. "New Mexico," the first battleship of any nation to be electrically propelled, is one of the most important achievements of the scientific age. She not only develops the maximum power and, with electrical control, has greater flexibility of maneuver, which is a distinct naval advantage, but also gives greater economy. At 10 knots, her normal cruising speed, she will steam on less fuel than the best turbine-driven ship that preceded her.

The electric generating plant, totaling 28,000 horsepower, and the propulsion equipment of the great super-dreadnaught were built by the General Electric Company. Their operation has demonstrated the superiority of electric propulsion over old-time methods and a wider application of this principle in the merchant marine is fast making progress.

Figures that tell the Story of Achievement

Length—624 feet
Width—97 feet
Displacement—32,000 tons
Fuel capacity—a million gallons (fuel oil)
Power—28,000 electrical horsepower
Speed—21 knots

Six auxiliary General Electric Turbine-Generators of 400 horsepower each, supply power for nearly 500 motors, driving pumps, fans, shop machinery, and kitchen and laundry appliances, etc.

Utilizing electricity to propel ships at sea marks the advancement of another phase of the electrical industry in which the General Electric Company is the pioneer. Of equal importance has been its part in perfecting electric transportation on land, transforming the potential energy of waterfalls for use in electric motors, developing the possibilities of electric lighting and many other similar achievements.

As a result, so general are the applications of electricity to the needs of mankind that scarcely a home or individual today need be without the benefits of General Electric products and service.

An illustrated booklet describing the "New Mexico," entitled, "The Electric Ship," will be sent upon request. Address General Electric Company, Desk 44, Schenectady, New York.
